

Nassau County Planning Department Nassau Hub Major Investment Study (MIS)

The area defined as the Nassau Hub stretches from the EAB Plaza on the southeast, to Roosevelt Field on the northwest, including the Nassau Coliseum, Eisenhower Park, Mitchel Field, Hofstra University and The Source Mall. It represents a significant economic engine for the County. It encompasses almost three square miles with about 15 million square feet of commercial and office space, and it generates $50 billion in annual revenue. The Hub's concentration of retail and commercial space, as well as its sports and entertainment destinations have contributed to a sharp increase in traffic. Projections estimate that left unchecked, traffic will increase 36% from 480,000 daily "person trips" in and out of the Hub, to 650,000 a day over the next 10 years. To combat this problem, Major Investment Study will investigate transportation and land use options in and around the Nassau Hub, with findings expected to help shape critical planning decisions to be made by Nassau County.
